- A topographic map showing a mountainous region. A green line represents a trail or path, starting from a red cross and a red arrow at the top left, winding through the terrain, and ending near a cluster of orange buildings on the right. A blue line represents a river or stream, flowing from the top left towards the bottom right. The map includes contour lines and a label '450' indicating elevation. There are several orange buildings scattered across the map, and a black cross is visible near the center.
